Ansaldo Honolulu JV is honored and proud to have been selected for the Honolulu rail project

Sergio De Luca, CEO of Ansaldo STS, states that Ansaldo Honolulu JV – a general partnership with AnsaldoBreda led by Ansaldo STS – has the demonstrated capacity, both financially and technically, to serve the people of Honolulu to build and operate a world-class rail system

"Ansaldo STS, an international company with more than one century of experience in the transportation sector and in the US market, has the demonstrated capacity both financially and technically to serve the people of Honolulu to build and operate a world-class rail system", Sergio De Luca, CEO of Ansaldo STS, stated today to the HART finance committee. "We are honored and proud to have been selected for this system, which will be built and operated primarily by mainland US and Hawaii employees. Our company has a long history of delivering highly successful state-of-the-art rail systems around the world. We have spent many months in planning the HART system and are fully ready to immediately get to work to honor our commitment."
